The Senegalese Head of State was accompanied by a high-level delegation including HE Mankeur Ndiaye, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Diene Farba Sarr, Minister of Investments and Partnership.

He held talks with Mr Bin Sulayem and senior DP World officials including Vice Chairman HE Jamal Majid Bin Thaniah, Senior Vice President and Managing Director of Middle East and Africa Region Suhail Albanna, and Senior Vice President and Managing Director of UAE Region Mohammed Al Muallem.

The visiting dignitaries were briefed about the sophisticated technology and innovation that has driven the port's operational efficiencies and were briefed on its major expansion projects, including the ongoing development of Terminal 3 that will add a further 4 million TEU bringing the port's capacity to 19 million TEU this year.

HE Sultan Ahmed Bin Sulayem, Chairman, DP World, said:

"We are honoured to welcome His Excellency Makky Sall, the President of Senegal, to our flagship facility. Jebel Ali Port grew and expanded over the years as a gateway to the whole region leveraging its geographic location. We believe DP World Dakar is similarly strategically positioned for west Africa, being both a gateway to the region and a major contributor to Senegal's expanding economy, supporting its future long term development. We thank His Excellency President Sall and the Government of Senegal for their support and cooperation."

DP World Dakar offers year-round direct access with no tidal restrictions, window berthing and 24/7 ship and yard operations. The terminal is the favoured first-port of call for vessels southbound from Europe. Good road network connections offer swift transit times for cargo bound for Guinea-Bissau, Mauritania, and Gambia. With its onsite rail terminal, Dakar Port is the historic gateway to Bamako, Mali.

DP World Dakar has created more than 200 jobs for local Senegalese people. Under the company's management, specialised training has been given to terminal employees to bring operational efficiencies in line with DP World's global standards.
