PRESS RELEASE 06.05.2010

EXCITING GLIMPSE OF THE NEW LONDON GATEWAY PORT AND LOGISTICS PARK

The first new images of the £1.5billion London Gateway port and logistics park have been revealed at the national freight transportation and logistics expo, Multimodal 2010.

New futuristic animations of the site as well as a brand new corporate video were launched at the expo to show what the 1,500 acre development will look like once complete.

Over 500 people visited London Gateway's stand at Multimodal to view the new images. The animation, which is now available on London Gateway's website www.londongateway.com, demonstrates how businesses will be able to improve the efficiency of their supply chains and reduce their carbon footprints.

Simon Moore, Chief Executive of London Gateway said: "There is no better way to demonstrate the benefits and scale of the project than by taking our prospective customers on a virtual tour of the site. We are very much open for business and look forward to increasing further the level of dialogue with our future customers and partners."

The animation of London Gateway shows the logistic park buildings as well as wide boulevards and canals running alongside the 9.25 million square foot park. When complete, the park will be able to deliver some of the largest warehouse buildings in the UK.

Construction of essential infrastructure that lays the foundation for the project is now underway at London Gateway, owned and operated by DP World, situated just outside the M25 in Thurrock, South Essex. The port, which will be one of the most automated and efficient in the world, will add an additional 3.5million TEU to the UK's port capacity.
